AIRA Announces the 2022 Best Practice Investor Relations Awards Winners

The winners of the 2022 Australasian Investor Relations Awards were announced last night at the Annual AIRA Best Practice Investor Relations Awards.

The Australasian Investor Relations Awards recognise listed entities that have excelled in Investor Relations over the past year. Winners are determined based on voting by domestic and international equities analysts and fund managers.

AIRA's CEO, Ian Matheson said, "the winners have been recognised by the investment community for leading the way through the current IR landscape, driving innovation, and creating sustainable value for capital markets stakeholders. Congratulations to all IR team members from winning and nominated teams. The awards acknowledge your dedication, direction, and delivery of best practice investor relations."

In addition to the awards for listed entities AIRA has three sell-side awards, to recognise corporate access and sales teams within investment banks and stockbroking firms who assist companies' access and connect with investors around the world. These award winners were determined based on voting from investor relations professionals from listed entities.

The award winners are listed on the following page.
